IV. ARENA BOARDING

8. DESCRIPTION OF ARENA BOARDING

8.1 Teams compete against the clock around a course defined by a series of gates and obstacles.

8.2 The course is comprised by a series of gates that should be 4m wide, other obstacles, and designated Start and Finish gates.

8.3 Teams wait in a collecting ring or pit area and enter the main part of the arena when called by the pit officials.

8.4 The competition runs over two courses, named Course A and Course B. Course B is the reverse of Course A.

9. OFFICIALS

9.1 THE REFEREE who stands near to the centre of the course. The Referee indicates to the pit officials when the course is ready for the next competitor. The Referee also indicates to the Timekeeper any penalties incurred by a team during their run. The Referee is also responsible for manual timing of each race, as a backup to laser timing equipment. The Referee may refer to additional arena officials and/or video evidence.

9.2 THE TIMEKEEPER who records the time for each team on each run, details any penalties incurred, and calculates the final placings of the teams.

9.3 PIT MANAGER will marshal teams in the pits or collecting area, manage entry and exit gates, and indicate to the next team to compete when they may enter the arena.

9.4 The Referee and Pit Manager can issue Yellow/Orange/Red card penalties at any point for infringements of safety protocols.

9.5 Arena officials will be managed by the Referee in the main arena and must follow all guidance given to them.

10. HEATS

10.1 A heat is defined as a minimum of two runs for each competing team around one course, either Course A or Course B.

10.2 One or Two heats will be run on each day of competition. For a one-day competition, this will be over Course A and Course B. For a competition run over two or more days, this can be Course A and Course B on the same day, or Course A or B twice on any one day.

10.3 There should be an equal number of chances for each team to complete both courses.

10.4 A team can enter more than one horse if they wish but cannot compete more than once in the same competition under the same team name. In National Championship rounds, stand alone or International events, team change rules specific to the National Championships will apply.

(a) Variants of the National Championship rules may apply and will be set out by the officials of that event.

10.5 Board riders and horse riders may compete in a number of different teams. In National Championships rounds, team change rules specific to the National Championships will apply in accordance with rule 10.4a.

10.6 Points are scored in National Championships competitions, stand alone or International events in accordance with National Championships Rules and rule 10.4a.

10.7 The entering and exiting protocol between the collecting ring or pit area and the main part of the arena may vary from event to event but will be advised by Officials before the start of competition. Failure to follow these protocols may result in penalisation, to the extent you may be withdrawn from the heat or asked to leave the arena.

11. TIMING

11.1 Timing of the run starts when the horse passes through the Start Gate and breaks the laser. The timing of the run ends when the horse passes through the Finish Gate and breaks the laser.

(a) Where a horse breaks the start line, but the boarder or horse rider are not attached, this will be considered a false start and the team will be allowed to retake their run at the discretion of the Referee.

(b) All three elements of the team--Horse rider, Horse and board rider--must be connected by the handle and the safety harness system at the start and end point of the race for the time to be recorded. All three elements must cross the finish line while attached via the harness and handle for the run's time to count.

(c) The team is fully attached when the board rider has hold of the handle and all connection points on the harness and riders' belt are in place. Connection points are deemed as the snap shackle connected to the saddle harness and the panic release connected to the rider's safety belt.

11.2 The time for each team on each run will be recorded by the Timekeeping Official.

11.3 A one second penalty will be incurred if the ball is knocked off a post or cone.

(a) If there is no ball on the post or cone, then the second penalty will be added if there is clear contact with the post or cone by any of the team's elements.

11.4 A four second penalty will be incurred if any element of a team misses a gate. The horse's left and right legs must both pass on the correct side of a cone (for example, on the 90 degree or weave obstacles); if the left leg passes on one side and the right leg passes on the other side it will be assessed as a miss.

11.5 Video reviews may only be called by Horseboarding International and affiliate association Officials to check touches, misses or any infringement a team may receive.

(a) The on-field decision will always stand should clear and compelling evidence to prove otherwise not be found.

(b) Penalties that have been designated for video review will be added to the team's time until the video review has been completed. Only if the video review shows clear and compelling evidence to overturn the penalty will the time penalty be removed.

11.6 The fastest time from each heat of races will be recorded for each team. This will determine a team's finishing position in that heat. If a team fails to finish a single run in any one heat, a penalty time of 200 seconds will be recorded and stand as their fastest time.

(a) Teams will score points from each completed heat depending on their finishing position which is determined by their fastest time over that heat.

(b) A time may only be awarded if a full team passes the start line, and the run has been deemed as started by the Referee and Officials.

11.7 If a heat or number of heats are cancelled due to any reason over the course of an event all teams that have entered that event and prepared to enter that heat will receive a 200 second time penalty and the minimum number of points available to them.

11.8 Teams have not entered the event until they have declared and paid entry fees.

(a) Horseboarding International and affiliate organisation officials may waive fees for any reason.

12. PENALTIES

12.1 Penalties are given by the Referee, Pit Manager and other designated Horseboarding International or affiliated association officials for breaches of safety and welfare rules.

12.2 The Referee can issue a Medical Red Card if they believe that any team element has sustained injury sufficient enough to warrant further attention.

12.3 Where any horse rider or board rider has, as the result of a fall, lost consciousness, appears disorientated or confused, or any Horseboarding International or affiliated association Official believes that a head injury has been sustained they will give that person a Medical Red Card.

Yellow cards are given to the team and not the individuals.

- HBUK Officials may give one verbal warning per minor infringement which does not pose a direct increased risk.

- Multiple yellow cards can be accumulated at once.

- A team that receives four yellow cards will have a four second time penalty added to all times earned in the heat the fourth yellow card is given.

12.6 Orange Cards - Horse & Rider Safety Infringements

Orange cards will be given for anything that directly poses an increased risk or danger to team members, ground crew, HBUK Officials, general public and Horse welfare. These are accumulative and are designed to stop horses escalating in either excitement or stress and causing danger to themselves or those around them. It is important that when issuing an orange card Horseboarding International and affiliated association officials consider the experience of the rider which includes their rank within the sport and ability to show rider control as detailed in rule 13.2 and subcategories of the National Championship Rules 2025. However, rank and experience will not outweigh the seriousness of any risk or danger posed.

12.7 Orange cards infringements include but are not limited to the signs of stress horses may exhibit detailed below:

- Horse is fidgety in the pits
- Horse is not respecting the rider's commands fully
- Horse is not respecting personal space of people or horses or objects in the pit/arena

- Constant calling out
- Feet stomping
- Rearing
- Horse that passes between the outside of a gate and the crowd barriers, due to a lack of control from the rider
- Lack of control from the rider
- Rider unable to direct their horse's movements effectively or safely
- Rider struggles to maintain proper balance and positioning on the horse

- When a horse causes individuals on the ground or other horses and riders to move or physically knocks into them

- Horse makes contact with bunting

- Pit behaviour (Horse) - being close to crash barriers

- Hooking up – difficulty in hooking up board rider to a degree that causes excessive delay in racing or poses a risk to team elements or ground crew. This could also be assessed as not responding to rider's control

- Returning to the pits – difficulty in returning to the run-off shoot or slowing to a walk then stop once in the run-off shoot

- Horse Bucking

- Laboured running of the horse

(a) Horseboarding UK defines bucking as below:

- Bucking is a behaviour exhibited by horses where they forcefully jump into the air and kick out their hind legs. It is an instinctual behaviour that horses use to protect themselves or show their discomfort, frustration, or displeasure.

- Bucking can be caused by several factors, such as pain, fear, excitement, or disobedience. It is a common form of resistance that horses may use to avoid being ridden or to get rid of an unwanted rider.

- Bucking can be dangerous for riders, as they may be thrown off balance and fall off the horse. - Riders must work to prevent bucking by maintaining a proper and balanced seat, addressing any underlying physical or psychological issues that may be causing the behaviour, and providing appropriate training and conditioning for the horse.

(b) Horseboarding UK defines laboured running of the horse as below:

- When a horse is running laboured and tired, it means that the horse is struggling to maintain its speed and stamina due to fatigue or exhaustion.

- The horse's movements may become slower, less fluid, and less coordinated as it tries to conserve energy.

- Breathing may become more rapid and shallow, and the horse may start to pant or wheeze as it tries to take in enough oxygen to sustain its exertion.

- The horse's muscles may become tense and rigid, making it harder for the horse to move with ease and fluidity.
- The horse may start to stumble, trip, or lose balance more frequently, increasing the risk of injury or accidents.
- The horse may show signs of mental and emotional fatigue, such as lethargy, apathy, or disinterest in its surroundings.

12.8 Three Orange cards

- If three orange cards are given due to escalating behaviour of the horse, that horse will no longer be able to run in that heat. It is then the responsibility of the rider to calm and deescalate the horse's behaviour. Teams that earn three orange cards in a heat will start the next competitive heat with 1 orange card.
- If HBUK Officials feel the horse has calmed and the behaviour has been deescalated, a team may start the next competitive heat with no orange cards.

12.9 Red cards

Red cards will be given for anything that directly poses an immediate and severe risk or danger to team members, ground crew, HBUK Officials, the general public and Horse welfare. If a red card is issued to a team or directly to a Horse & Rider, that team or individuals will be withdrawn from the heat. Red Cards that can be given are Team Red Cards, Horse Red Cards, Rider Red Cards or Horse & Rider Red Cards. Red card infringements are but not limited to the below:

- Touching Barriers - Horse: If a horse touches the arena barriers or outer fencing in either the competition arena or the pits area or anywhere that the barrier in question is being used for crowd control an automatic red card will be issued.

Yellow & Orange card infringements may be deemed red cards should they pose immediate and severe risk or danger.

12.10 If an element is issued with a Medical Red Card, they are not allowed to continue in the competition until on site First Aiders have given that element clearance to compete.

12.11 No Go Safety Zones- these may be in any part of the arena and will be defined by cones. If a ball is knocked off a safety zone cone, there is a 1 second penalty. If either the horse or the board rider enters the safety zone, there is a 4 second penalty and possible yellow card.

(a) On site Steward's enquiry - Horseboarding UK officials must be notified on site at the event where the alleged infringement has happened. The Officials will write down the enquiry and duly investigate while on site and give the claimant and those involved their ruling.

(b) Off site Steward's enquiry – There is an online form on the HBUK website (horseboardinguk.org) that can be filled out and sent to Horseboarding UK officials. An off-site steward's enquiry has a fee of £200 which is refundable should the alleged infringement be upheld.

(c) Should the steward's enquiry be about Referees or HBUK Committee members, please state this and they will be removed from any role in the investigation or decision.
